

Take Two

Characters and Descriptions

Hazy the Cow from Jack and the Beanstalk

Hazy is a vegan cow who doesn't produce milk because it is against his morals. He loves yoga, his best friend Jack and motivational messages - "Give peas a chance!"

Queen Elizabeth II from Handbagged

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II looks back at her weekly meetings with former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in Handbagged. She is quick-witted and sharp as a nail, and obviously always very well spoken.

Roxie Hart from Chicago

All Roxie cares about is getting into Vaudeville. She is desperate, selfish, sexy and innocent, never thinking about the consequences of her actions. She winds up in prison after shooting a man for ending their affair

Mairtin Hanlon from A Skull in Connemara

Mairtin is a ne'er-do-well from a rural village in West Ireland. He (mostly) means good but is often misunderstood and judged by past misdemeanours. He forms an unlikely friendship with the local grave digger, who is rumoured to have killed his wife.

Lucy Rose Atkins from Bread & Roses

Lucy Rose is a single mother who works tirelessly in a local mill. She discovers natural leadership qualities and undertakes a journey from unskilled worker to impassioned leader

Sherlock Holmes from Hound of the Baskervilles

The famous detective Sherlock Holmes is a master of observation and deductive reasoning. He is usually quite reserved but on occasion he can be surprisingly impulsive.

Eliza Doolittle from Pygmalion

Eliza is a fast learner and a very strong character. In the beginning of Pygmalion she is a Cockney flower seller, but with the help of two gentlemen she transforms into a woman as poised and well-spoken as a Duchess.

Lucy Fur from Hot Stuff

The quick-witted, glittered covered temptress Lucy Fur is the devil's disciple. Through the fabulous art of Drag, Lucy appears as Margaret Thatcher, a Nun and a nurse as well as her demonic self.

Danny from Brassed Off

Danny is the leader of a colliery brass band in Grimley, Yorkshire and it is his lifelong ambition to lead the band to the National Brass Band Competition at the Royal Albert Hall. A miner all his life, he is a proud man who loves music and respects hard work.
